LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

There were in the Library July 1, 1901, 4,118 Volumes.

During the year there were added, 135 volumes, making at the beginning of the library year (July 1, 1902) 4,253 volumes; of these 41 were added from the Dr. Carpenter Fund, and 94 from town appropriation.

The number of volumes, rebound, in Fiction, were 30, in Juvenile 12, and 3 volumes of Magazines, making a total of 45 volumes.

Six volumes were duplicated.

The usual number of gifts were received: Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors, 2 volumes, National Museum 1 volume, Official Records of Union and Confederate Soldiers, Civil Service Commission, Journal of Senate, Manual of General Court, 1902, Vital Records, Pamphlets, &c.

There are 8 copies of different Monthly Magazines taken, all of which have a large circulation.

The whole number of names registered were 280, and 8,275 volumes were circulated during the year.

The Library was open 47 Saturdays, and the weekly circulation was 176.

Article II of the "Rules of the Library" has been changed, thus giving our young people 12 years of age the opportunity of drawing books in their own name.

In Article III the fine of 25 cents for retaining a book over the "two weeks," has been changed to 2 cents for each day over-due.

July 1, 1902, a new system for distributing books was adopted, which seems to be working well.

LAURA C. SADLER,
Librarian Upton Town Library.

The attention of the voters is called to the Financial Report of the Committee which appears at the close of this report. The financial condition of the School Department was never better. The appropriation was not over-drawn, although a number of extraordinary repairs were made. In view of the increased cost of all material the financial standing is worthy of notice.

ATTENDANCE.

The record of attendance for the year 1902 shows an improvement over that for 1901. With one exception there was an improvement in the attendance of each of the schools. In some instances the improvement was only slight; in others, it was marked.

The attendance for the High School was not so good as it should have been. A high school should not have less than 95 for its per cent. of attendance. There were 84 cases of tardiness in the High School. These cases were confined to 28 pupils. There were more cases of tardiness in the elementary grades than there should have been. The majority of these cases were chargeable to a small number of pupils who were tardy again and again. There are necessary cases of tardiness, and the teachers should be very careful in distinguishing between the necessary and the unnecessary. In general, however, it is safe to say that at least one-half of all the tardiness is entirely unnecessary. Parents should take great pains not to allow their children to be tardy for trivial reasons. To allow a child to be tardy for any but the most weighty reason is detrimental to his future welfare. Punctuality is one of the greatest virtues. It must become a habit through practice.

THE WORK OF THE SCHOOLS.

The quality of the work done in the schools continues about the same from year to year. The quality is in general, good, and in some instances it is excellent. With two exceptions, the personnel of the teaching force has changed entirely during the last three years. Taking this fact into consideration, and the additional fact that most of the teachers come to us with little or no experience, the work done reflects credit upon the system.

CHANGES IN TEACHERS.

The new teachers have taken up the work with intelligence and enthusiasm. By use of the Plan Book, which contains a daily record of the work done by the previous teacher, the new teacher is able to take up and carry on the work more effectively than would otherwise be the case.

It is also possible for a teacher to obtain from the Plan Book of some experienced teacher, an idea of the general kind and quality of the work demanded in the schools. I think that the uniformly good work from year to year may be attributed in some degree to the wise use of the Daily Plan Book.

A SUGGESTION.

Ever since the occupation of the present quarters in the High School Building, the Fifth and Sixth Grades have been more or less crowded. The membership of the two grades has seldom been less than 55 pupils, and at the beginning of the current year it reached 63. Of course, it would be unreasonable to expect a good quality of work with one teacher in charge of so many pupils. In view of this fact, and in justice to the children, the committee felt obliged, at the beginning of the current year, to engage an assistant teacher for these grades. By utilizing one of the High School recitation rooms, the teachers have been able to do a better quality of work than it would have been possible to do in a single room.

While the plan of employing an assistant in these grades has to some extent improved the situation, it has not, to my mind, solved the problem. Under this plan the High School is deprived of a much needed recitation room for a large part of the day. The chairs in this room which the small pupils of the grades are obliged to use, are not at all fitted to their statures. There are several other minor objections to the plan which it is not necessary to mention.

How shall we solve the problem? Upton's school population is not decreasing. There is every reason to believe that it will slowly increase. So long as this is true the congestion in the Fifth and Sixth Grades will continue.

There are, it seems to me, two ways out of the difficulty: The first is to provide an extra room either at the Centre or at the High School Building and put it in charge of a regular teacher. It would, of course, not be impossible to fit up a room for the Fifth Grade pupils from the Centre in the old High School Building; neither would it be impossible to provide such a room for the pupils from both the Centre and West Upton at the new High School Building. Both these plans would be possible, but from the necessity of some expenditure of money to carry them into execution I doubt if they would be practicable.

The second, and it seems to me better way, would necessitate no inconvenience and no expense. My idea would be to reduce the course below the High School to seven grades or years, provided the age of entering the First Grade could be raised to six years. This, it is evident, would make it possible to have only one grade, the Fifth, in the room now occupied by the Fifth and Sixth Grades. It would also do away with the necessity of employing an assistant. I am convinced that with the age of entrance to the First Grade fixed at six years, just as good a quality and a like amount of work can be accomplished in seven years as is now accomplished in eight. The idea of raising the age limit and decreasing the number of years in the elementary course is in line with the best educational thought of the present time.

OTHER CHANGES.

A new series of text-books in music has been adopted. The results obtained from its use are pronounced satisfactory by the music teacher and by the regular teachers. The other text-books remain the same.

New text-books are needed in history for the Eighth Grade, and several of the different texts may need replenishing from time to time.

New adjustable standards have been placed on the desks and the chairs in the Third and Fourth Grade room at Upton Centre. It would be advisable to have the desks and chairs in the Fifth and Sixth Grade room at the High School Building fitted with adjustable standards at an early date.

It would also add much to the appearance of this room if the desk tops and some parts of the chairs could be refinished. The refinishing of the desks in the Seventh and Eighth Grade room has, I think, tended to promote greater care and neatness on the part of the pupils in all their work. I am confident that money spent in keeping school rooms and school furniture clean, neat and attractive in appearance yields more than a money return.

REPAIRS.

During the summer vacation the outside woodwork of the High School Building was newly painted and a large part of the inside finish was re-varnished. During the coming year there are several things that will need attention.

1. If possible storm windows should be supplied at the West Upton building. Such windows would render the heating of the building an easier matter and would save a considerable amount of fuel.
2. The front, at least, of the West Upton building should have a coat of paint, as should also the upper and lower hallways.
3. It would also be economy to supply the foul-air ducts at this building with dampers. By closing these dampers after school at night the warm air could be kept in the building; without the dampers the warm air passes rapidly out of the building as soon as the fire becomes low.
4. The building at Upton Centre should be painted during the coming summer.

5. The East Part school-house should also be given a coat of paint as early as possible.

CONCLUSION.

It is my endeavor to keep the work of the schools up to the highest standard of excellence consistent with the conditions under which this work must be done. In such an endeavor I feel that my efforts are seconded by the teachers, by the committee, and by the people of the town. It is only through the hearty co-operation of all these forces that the best work can be done.

Respectfully submitted,

W. H. HOLMES, JR.

REPORT OF THE PRINCIPAL OF THE HIGH SCHOOL.

Mr. Wm. H. Holmes, Jr., Superintendent of Schools,

DEAR SIR :

The amount of effort put forth by the different members of the school during the past year has been very encouraging and the results achieved worthy of notice.

Since my last report one member of the school took the entrance examination for Harvard and did not fail in a single test. This is something new for the Upton High School and it reflects credit not only on the young man himself, but also on the Superintendent and School Board, who made such a complete preparation possible.

In former years quite a large proportion of the young men expecting to enter higher institutions of learning took five years to prepare, but this year, although 75 per cent. (the greatest in the school's history) anticipate entering a higher institution, not a single one feels that a post-graduate year is necessary. In our Junior Class over 40 per cent. of the whole class expect to enter some college or technical school after they graduate. This large proportion of the two upper classes having a desire for a higher education gives the school a tone decidedly higher than that of a year ago.

If the true success of a school is based on scholarship we believe, considering the age and mental powers of the pupils, that the success of the school during the past year will compare favorably with that of any year in its history.

Through the kindness of our Superintendent we have been supplied with several volumes of selected readings, from which the pupils have been able to select parts adapted to their ability and age. This has improved the literary exercises of the school and has created considerable interest among the students.

Again we wish to thank our School Board and Superintendent for their interest in us, for we realize that only through their untiring efforts can the school be successful.

The change in recitation rooms causes Mr. Aldrich extra work, yet he does it cheerfully and faithfully.

With prospects far more promising than a year ago we predict that this year will be even more successful than the last.

I am, with respect,

WM. MIDDLETON MARR,

Principal.

Upton, January 26, 1903.

REPORT OF THE TEACHER OF DRAWING AND MUSIC.

Mr. Wm. H. Holmes, Jr., Superintendent of Schools,

DEAR SIR :

In retracing the work of the past year in music and drawing I find there is much to stimulate us to greater enthusiasm and better teaching in the year upon which we enter.

But few changes have been made in the general outlines of work or the methods pursued in teaching. Certain modifications which were suggested at the beginning of the year are being carried out with satisfactory results.

In drawing we have endeavored to make the work of practical value to the pupils, and to awaken an interest in the life around them. From the unfolding of the first bud of spring to the falling of the last autumn leaf we have studied nature for its beauties of form and color. We have tried not only to teach pupils to see correctly, and to reproduce what they see, but to create something from their own observation and experience. A great deal of originality of thought has been shown in illustrative drawings by primary pupils, and some excellent designs for various purposes have been thought out and executed by pupils of the grammar grades.

The interest and support that the teachers have constantly given me in carrying out my suggestions for the daily lessons have been a source of inspiration to me. The result in music has been a better grading of the work from the primary, through the High School, so that no serious breaks are to be found.

Our aim is high; but to attain perfection is, of course, impossible. If, however, children are given good music to sing they learn to appreciate it as they do good literature. Musical taste grows with technique, and the more ability a class possesses, the better music it demands. Our effort of the past year has been to keep the best and highest ideals before the pupils, and to so instruct them in note reading that they shall be able to sing music at sight with the same ease and certainty that they are taught to read languages from books.

Three of the schools are now supplied with new music-books of the Natural Course which comprises the most modern methods of teaching music. Although this system has been used but a short time the results attained by the pupils show a marked advancement in sight reading and singing.

The assistance that I have received from the Principal of the High School in giving his pupils good daily drill in music has enabled the chorus to make such rapid progress in note reading that we were obliged to ask for an additional supply of music last term. This has also been exhausted and we are now ready for more.

My thanks are due to all who have so generously aided me in the work of the year.

Respectfully submitted,

FLORA M. RANDALL.
