And you are directed to serve this Warrant, by posting up attested copies thereof at each of the following places in said Town, ten days at least before the time of holding said meeting:—At each of the Post Offices and on the Town House in said Town.

UPTON, MASS., April 15, 1904.

PROCEEDINGS OF SPECIAL TOWN MEETING, APRIL 25, 1904.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

WORCESTER, ss.

Pursuant to the foregoing Warrant, the inhabitants of the Town of Upton, qualified to vote in town affairs, met in their Town Hall in said Upton, on Monday, the twenty-fifth day of April A. D. 1904 at eight o'clock in the evening.

The meeting was called to order by the Town Clerk, who then read the Warrant and the officer's return thereon.

MODERATOR.

Article 1. The meeting made choice by ballot, the check-list being used, of William H. Wellington for Moderator, he was then sworn to faithfully perform the duties of the office, by the Town Clerk.

A PART OF TOWN CEMETERY FOR THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Article 2. David J. Moroney made a motion that we, the voters of Upton, instruct the Cemetery Commissioners, to reserve a section of Lakeview Cemetery, or any portion thereof, for the exclusive burial of Catholics. The pastor of the Church of the Holy Angels shall decide who are Catholics. Mr. Moroney said, in explanation, that the Catholics of Upton had decided that the time had come when they should have a place for the burial of their dead in town, that Catholics would do as others do, buy lots and pay for them, that the Cemetery was town property and he thought it was proper and right to set aside a portion for the Catholic people. We want about one-fifteenth of the Cemetery (which contains 1700 lots) set apart for the exclusive use of the Catholics who number about one-fifth of the population of the town. He had faith in the people of Upton and thought they would act wisely and well. Mr. T. J. Harper wanted to know if they did not have the same right as other people had to buy lots.

Rev. E. L. Mills of the Methodist Church wanted to know what Mr. Moroney meant by "exclusive use," "what it involved?" "Does it mean a deed before the consecration or what does it mean? If the members of any church should ask for such a thing, I should stand against them. The burial place of anyone is a private matter. If I am not satisfied with the arrangements provided by the Town, I insist upon my right to go elsewhere. There is a principle involved here and I stand for principle. Public property is public property and I am against setting aside public property for sectarian purposes."

Mr. Geo. F. Prentiss said there were only 800 lots in that part of the cemetery instead of 1700 as stated by Mr. Moroney, and that 200 are not available on account of the nature of the soil.

Rev. J. M. Cruse of the Catholic church said in part, that Lee, Stockbridge, Great Barrington, Housatonic and other places where the idea prevailed as it did in Upton and where sections of the Town land had been reserved. Dalton had bought six acres of land and gave it to the Catholics for exclusive use, a common ordinary drive-way in the Town burying ground was all that divided Catholic and non-Catholic people. He said, "I think it right and just that the Cemetery Commissioners be instructed. Gentlemen, it would pay us well if we would once in a while visit consecrated ground, if we would now and then journey more often than we do to the places where your dead and mine are buried. Then we should meditate that it is but right that after all our trials, our minglings, our crosses and our joys, we should sleep together on the green hillsides of our common land. Will any broad-minded, kind-hearted American oppose this religious feeling? Eradicate the feeling of religion from America and you will take from under the American republic that we love so well, its foundation-stone."

Mr. Geo. W. Wood saw no difference between a Catholic and a Protestant and that one ought not to be favored above another. Mr. George Z. Williams and Mr. W. H. Fiske spoke in favor of setting off the land.

A motion to divide the house on the question was voted down 66 yeas to 103 nays.

Voted, to use check-list. A motion to call the roll was lost. Voted, to proceed to ballot. The motion was again read, the Moderator declared the box ready to receive ballots, yes or no, on the question. The Moderator and Constable Parshley had charge of the box and the Town Clerk had charge of the check-list. After all had voted that wished the box was declared closed.

The Moderator and Town Clerk counted the ballots cast,

Changes in High School; Mr. Wm. M. Marr, Misses Anna Teaching Corps. L. Metcalf, and Anna Burnside resigned. Common Schools; Misses Helen Benson, Margaret F. Wood, and Florence Gilbert resigned. The remainder of the corps of teachers is as it was last year. Reference to the table will show the grades which each teacher has charge of.

Change in Organization. The new departure of the year in the way of school organization has been the adding of a sixth grade at the Center; it was necessary to relieve the threatened congestion at the Grammar School in Grade VI. Next year this congested condition will occur in Grade VII.

The very best solution of this annual problem of congestion in the Grammar grades is to provide accommodation for a school of Grades V. and VI. at West Upton. This solution means more room at this part of the town and more room means or should mean, a new building. This is a solution which Upton citizens should consider carefully at once.

The location of the present West Upton school building, and the building itself, would seem to preclude the solving of the problem, as I have suggested, by remodeling the present building. When anything is done, a new location and a new building should be carefully considered. A location where the children can have play-grounds sufficient for healthful play without trespassing on neighbors' property or annoying them; such annoyance often involves teachers, school committee, and superintendent in petty, but none the less disturbing troubles. Very often the entire administration of school authorities is vitiated by small matters arising from just such conditions as prevail at West Upton. With a new building the non-sanitary features of the out-houses, and the unattractive mode of heating could be remedied.

With Grades V. and VI. at the Center and West schools, Grades VII. and VIII. at the High School building, could each be placed in charge of a teacher and assigned to a separate room. Your Grammar School pupils need the time and attention which such an arrangement would make possible. With fifty pupils in Grades VII and VIII, under a single teacher, adequate instruction and proper attention is a thing to be hoped for rather than attained.

Acting on the suggestion above, regarding Grades V. and VI. school at West Upton, would not require the services of another teacher, provided the children in the East Upton school could be distributed among the village schools, and the teacher of that school released to be assigned duty elsewhere.

East Upton School. In the last report it was recommended that the East Upton school could be profitably closed; it was suggested that the sentiment of all of the patrons of this school be obtained. A thorough canvass among the patrons of the district revealed an almost unanimous demand to have the school continued, and it has been continued with an enrolment this year of eighteen pupils. The reasons which have been presented in the past for closing this school hold now with all of the force that they ever had. I am more than ever convinced that a Superintendent could be of more service to our East Upton patrons if their children were brought to the village schools. That their children could be given more and better opportunities is a fact too evident to require arguing. This is my opinion after recognizing fully the efficient service which the present teacher is rendering this community; a service meriting their loyal support and second to none in the town.

It has appealed to me that all of the objections which came out in the canvass of this district would lose vital force if absolutely commendable transportation service could be afforded the pupils, and a greater continuity of service could be assured them of the efficient teachers in our graded schools.

Teachers' Salaries. Greater continuity of service can not be obtained from our efficient teachers until we pay better salaries. Just as soon as we secure an efficient teacher, and that teacher has established a reputation or even satisfactorily established herself in our schools, she is a desirable candidate for places that pay considerable more to start with than we pay at the present time for a maximum. Very often it is not necessary for the teacher to candidate for schools; she is visited in her own school-room and offered inducement to go elsewhere. This is perfectly legitimate competition and can only be met by adopting and providing for some such a maximum and minimum salary schedule as that here suggested.

I would suggest that $5,675.00 be set as the maximum amount to be paid for teachers' salaries and that the schedule be somewhat as follows:—

School	Minimum	Per week, 52 weeks	Per week, 38 weeks	Maximum	Per wk., 52 weeks	Per week, 38 weeks
H. S. Principal	$1000	$19.23	($26.31)	$1200	$23.07	($31.58)
H. S. Assistant	400	7.69	(10.52)	450	8.65	(11.84)
H. S. Assistant	400	7.69	(10.52)	450	8.65	(11.84)
		$1800			$2100
			Per week, 36 weeks			Per week, 36 weeks
Gram. VII. VIII.	400	7.69	(11.11)	500	9.61	(13.88)
Gram. V. & VI.	360	6.92	(10.00)	400	7.69	(11.11)
Center V. & VI.	375	7.21	(10.41)	450	8.65	(12.50)
Center III. & IV.	360	6.92	(10.00)	400	7.69	(11.11)
Center I. & II.	360	6.92	(10.00)	400	7.69	(11.11)
West III. & IV.	375	7.21	(10.41)	425	8.17	(11.80)
West I. & II.	360	6.92	(10.00)	400	7.69	(11.11)
East Part	360	6.92	(10.00)	400	7.69	(11.11)
		$2950			$3375
		1800			2100
		$4750			$5475
Drawing and Music	200				200

It is not probable that in any year the maximum would be spent for teachers' salaries; the unexpended balance might be applied to augmenting the amount to be spent for supplies.

I am sure that your schools could be greatly improved with this schedule of wages instituted as a permanent basis from which to determine salary changes. I suggest that the following are among the many advantages to be gained by this departure.

1. The citizens will know definitely what amount to provide for teachers' salaries.
2. The Superintendent, and School Committee will have a definite sum from which to estimate salaries, and a systematic basis from which to consider initial salaries, increases, etc.

3. The teachers will know just what to expect in the way of salaries, and will be more contented to plan a definite continuance in their schools. At present it is quite the natural thing for a non-resident teacher to begin to plan for a change about as soon as she locates with us. To the questions asked by the teachers regarding the policy of advance in salary, there are no reassuring answers which we can make under our present system; or lack of system.

4. The money can be spent to better advantage. The above schedule more nearly approximates the relative sums established as necessary to secure competent teachers for given grades, than the present schedule of salaries in force in Upton.

I sincerely hope that some definite salary schedule can be established and adhered to, if the one here presented can not become established.

In order that the citizens may know how the above schedule differs from the schedule of salaries in force this year, the following schedule of salaries paid this year is presented.

I have indicated what the different salaries would net or do net the teacher, for the time in which there is service rendered, and also for the whole year. A teacher has to live fifty-two weeks in the year; very few of them are situated, or ever will be situated so that they can increase their yearly salary by other work. In considering these schedules of salaries it is only fair that you have in mind constantly the amount yielded per week for fifty-two weeks in the year.

Other Expenses. I have at various times suggested that Upton does not spend as much as it should on its schools. The bare statement that this is the case, or is not the case amounts to nothing, and is a comparative waste of words; unless facts can be submitted to substantiate either claim, it is not worth the time or trouble spent on the statement. The liberality or parsimony of a town is directly reflected in the condition of the schools. Schools, like school children and communities, are not materially better or worse than the citizens demand they shall be. The standards of schools are determined absolutely by the character of the community, the efficiency of the teaching and superintending authorities, and the amount of money available for school purposes.

To determine the correctness of my opinion that Upton is not spending the amount of money necessary to have schools of the standard she should, and the standard I know many of your citizens have in mind, I have made a very careful and general investigation as to what all of the towns in the State are doing for their schools. From these towns I have selected five towns of Worcester County which are in practically the same class (considering population, valuation, number of children to educate, etc.) as Upton. I submit below data regarding them. I draw no conclusions; the School Committee and citizens of Upton are competent to draw their own conclusions. In fact it is your right to draw your own conclusions. These figures are taken from the sixty-seventh Annual Report of the State Board of Education, the latest figures available for a comparative study.

I wish to call your attention to the comparative data in columns 8, 11, 12, 16, and 17; especial attention to 16.

Transportation. The policy of the State Board of Education in dealing with the subject of transportation is so nearly all the guidance which is available in trying to handle the question in a legal and approved way, that I quote from a recent report:—

“First. Little children ought to be conveyed to school where the distances are in the vicinity of a mile. Conveyance is especially important if the way lies through woods or lonely and isolated regions. Where houses abound and walking is relatively easy, walking distances may be increased.

“Second. It is sometimes better for the larger number conveyed that the carriage should not go to every door, but that certain children off the main roads should meet it at suitable places.

“Third. Pains should be taken to furnish clean and comfortable vehicles, in charge of suitable persons. The conduct of children while in transit is largely dependent upon the character and competence of the driver. The authority of the School Committee to enforce proper conduct during conveyance is indisputable.

“Fourth. The practice of paying families money for the conveyance of their children, leaving them to convey them or not, as they see fit, is to be deprecated. If families make their children walk under such circumstances and pocket the money, the plan works a double injustice, for it takes money from the taxpayer for conveyance and yet the children do not have it.

“Fifth. A practice naturally accompanying the policy of conveyance is that of spending the noon intermission in the school house and taking the lunch there. It is a period that can be used socially and pleasantly, to the profit of the pupils, or its privilege can be abused, to their detriment. The right supervision of this period by the teachers, if there are enough in the central school to justify an alternation of service, or by trustworthy older pupils, or in some other way, merits earnest consideration. The ideal for this period is a school so trained to right conceptions of manly and womanly conduct, so trustworthy in the exercise of personal responsibility, so imbued with the idea that its members should be good citizens in their minority as well as in their majority, that it may be safely left to itself during the noon hour, or, indeed, at any time when the teacher is temporarily called away.

"Sixth. Conveyance should not be granted for distances so short as to undermine sturdiness and self-reliance in the children conveyed, nor denied for distances so great as to discourage attendance. What the appropriate means is for a town is best determined by local conditions, which, in the nature of the case, must be best understood by local authorities.

"Seventh. The authority of the School Committee to provide adequate conveyance and bind the town by its action, whether the town has specially and separately provided the money for the purpose or not, seems now to be clearly defined by statute. If conveyance is essential to convenience, the School Committee is required by law to furnish it.

"Decisions of the Committee in line with this policy stand in the courts."

The policy of your Committee would seem to be vindicated by the sections quoted. One step further you should go. The entire portion of the town which is served by a school building or buildings should be districted definitely for matters concerning transportation. These districts should be definitely marked at the school office and made the regular basis for determining claims for transportation.

School Books. A large part of the expense of this year for supplies has been for text books for use in the common schools. Early in the year I was instructed to equip the schools with such needed books as could be bought from this year's appropriation. I have to report that your schools are practically complete in their equipment in Arithmetics and Geographies, at the same time I must report the necessity of continuing this policy of equipment in all the other branches of both the common and high schools. Such books as have been given out new this year must be returned at the end of the year in a condition in keeping with the length of time they have been in use, or be settled for.

The following rules have been given to the teachers for enforcement.

RULES FOR PRESERVING BOOKS.

1st. Cover the books, putting on a new, clean cover when the book is transferred to a different pupil.

2nd. Each teacher's desk shall be supplied with binding material and transparent paper.

3rd. Scholars must report to the teacher at once the first evidence of damage, either a torn or loosened leaf, or weakened binding, so that the repair can be made instantly.

4th. Teachers shall examine the books under their care, occasionally, making such repairs as pupils may have failed to report.

I recommend that the teachers should be held strictly responsible for the enforcement of these rules. No small part of the expense in supplying schools of all grades and in all places is the expense due to the failure to protect this kind of municipal property. In schools where pains-taking teachers have been continued in services for years the life of a book may be eight, and even ten years; in schools where no system of protection is operative, books may be and often are destroyed in six months. You should see to it that Upton has many of the former type and none of the latter type.

Number Work. I have attempted the past year to place the teaching of number in the lower grades (I-IV.) on a firm foundation. Much effort has been made to incorporate and establish the "Walter Number Work" in these grades. The teachers have been supplied with carefully prepared outlines for this work, and the rooms are being equipped with the material necessary to do this work. No text is placed in the hands of the pupils until the fourth year in school. The foundation work preparatory to the child receiving a text book in Arithmetic is done by means of objective teaching. This objective teaching is with linear measures, from one inch to twelve inches in length, surface measures from one inch square to twelve inches square or larger, solids from one cubic inch to one of any desired cubic contents. The first unit is one inch (linear, surface, cubic); addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, partition, are all taught with objects to test the work at every stage. The children are not taught to express their work by means of figures until they can talk accurately and connectedly about their constructive problems.

This teaching of number with objects gives the children a comprehension of number facts which is sometimes remarkable. There seems to be, however, a great difference in the power to grasp these facts, evinced by children of the first and second years in school. Many of the children in the first grade do very little valuable work; most of the children in the second grade do work of real value. I recommend that the number work of the first year be simply incidental to the other work, and that the formal study of number be commenced in the second grade and with the pupils who have been in school two years. I feel confident that at the end of the third year in school the children will know as many, if not more, number facts, if this plan is adopted, and that the time now spent with the first grade children on number work can be better employed.

Individual Work. A phase of our school work in which I am much interested and upon which much experimenting has been done, is that of grading the school, and arranging recitation periods. We have been following quite closely in our schools the division system. Each room has been divided into two or more divisions for each grade in the room, and for work in the major subjects, (arithmetic, reading, language); while one division was reciting the other division would be studying. I have of late been much interested in a different plan of handling the recitation periods and I have experimented to some extent with this new plan.

At Batavia, New York, for many years, a system of individual work, combined with class work, has been in use. The system as reported is varied in its application but is essentially this. In all the work the pupils of a room recite together; following a recitation period is a period in which the class as a whole are assigned advanced work, are set to work studying or variously applying themselves, while individuals who need help are given assistance at this time, by the teacher, and in accordance with their individual needs.

The advantages of this system would seem to be these:—

1. The teacher knows what each pupil's difficulty is and helps the pupil to progress by removing this obstacle at a time which is expressly set for that purpose, and is not taken from class periods when the progress of an entire class must be interfered with to impart it.

2. The period of assistance being constant and definitely planned for, the work done in it must be more productive of good than the casual individual assistance given under the division plan.

3. Children who are slow are not made to feel that their slowness is holding the class back. They take their part in class work as best they can and are aware that there is a period in which they can get definite help without unnecessary attention being called to their slowness.

The Batavia system is an evolution; it is not new except to school systems apart from Batavia. It has been tried there for a number of years and has resulted in much good to their schools. The system is just now attracting much attention; the schools have been visited by many superintendents and teachers; much has been written about it. From one report made by a superintendent who has investigated this experiment with a view to its trial in the schools under his charge I quote the summary of results as he saw them in Batavia.

- (1.) "There are no pupils that fail to pass."
- (2.) "Children of the grades do not have to take home books to study."
- (3.) "Teachers are happy and so are the children."
- (4.) "Absence from school has been greatly reduced."
- (5.) "The Grammar grades are as full as the lower grades, except for the difference in mortality."
- (6.) "Discipline nearly takes care of itself."
- (7.) "There is no scolding or sharp words for failure in class."
- (8.) "The work in all subjects in all grades is remarkably uniform."

(9.) "The High School has felt the effect to the extent that it has doubled in three years."

A trial of this system has lead me to apply the central idea, a stated period for individual instruction to alternate with class work, to all of our schools; I am pleased with the results. I recommend that the system be given a thorough trial throughout our entire system of schools.

High School. The High School opened this fall with an entirely new corps of teachers, each of the teachers of the last year having been called to a more remunerative position. Work has progressed under the Principal M. J. White and the Assistant teachers, Miss Jane E. Avery and Miss Mary A. Waite.

The Course of Study. The Course of Study at the High School has been thoroughly revised. I call your attention to these features of the course as submitted below. Commercial Arithmetic is made a full year subject of the third year; Bookkeeping is offered a full year in the fourth year. Thus is there offered a continuous course in what our supporters must endorse as practical work in essential subjects, and this too, during the last two years a pupil is in the High School. These are the years of the pupil's greatest maturity and this change in our course should result beneficially.

Another change is found in German (1 yr.) being offered and Greek being dropped entirely. This change has been made possible by recent changes in college entrance requirements. After two years no more pupils will be graduated from a three years' course; all pupils receiving a diploma will be required to do work equivalent to that required for a diploma in the present four years' courses. I recommend that a certificate be granted to such pupils as remain in our High School a period less than four years and more than one year and do the maximum work of that period. A five years' course is offered for such pupils as are intending to enter college. My judgment is that all pupils fitting for college in our High School should plan to take this course. It should become our policy to certificate to colleges allowing us this privilege, in subjects only, and only in those subjects in which there is a very high standard of excellence maintained. A loose administering of the certificate privileges which have been accorded our school will result in our losing this privilege, and such a loss would damage our school immeasurably in the public estimation, though the actual damage might be immaterial.

HIGH SCHOOL—COURSES OF STUDY.

These courses are to guide the pupil in making a logical selection of studies. English is required in all courses; three other subjects should be elected. It is expected that one of the courses will be chosen and followed.

Rhetorical work and Music are required of pupils in all courses.

REMARKS.—Braces indicate that only one of the subjects should be elected. The College Preparatory Course may be completed in four years; five years is recommended. Physiology is a one-term study. Botany is a two-term study. Greek and Roman History alternate; also Physics and Chemistry. All other studies are not less than half-year subjects.

Examinations. A regular system of examinations has been instituted to occur at the mid-year, and the close of the year, in all subjects. The examinations are to be written in books provided for the purpose, these books are to be corrected by the teachers, handed back to the pupil, taken home for inspection by the parents and signed by them and then returned to the principal to be placed on file for future reference.

High School I take space here to report to you and through Grading Project. you to the citizens regarding the project to grade the High School, and Center School grounds.

This project, so far as the High School is a part of the plan, has been a project treasured in my mind since the first year of my principalship of the Upton High School. I reported last year that more or less definite plans had been shaped to raise the funds necessary to perform this work. You are familiar with the nature of the popular movement, which has resulted at this time in a fund of over $300.

It is planned to continue securing funds until there has been secured a sum of $750.00, and this has been placed in bank. The next move will be that of asking the town to appropriate $750.00.

All of the organizations in town, whether permanent organizations or organized for this purpose alone, which have been or will be identified with the active work of securing this fund will be asked to elect or designate some person to become a member of a "school property improvement council," which council will have prepared a definite plan to present to the voters of the town at such a time as the appropriation is asked for.

While the major part of the plan is one to properly grade the grounds about the High School, and Center School buildings, there is no closed plan to devote the entire sum to this purpose. As a matter of fact no definite plan is, or has been made regarding the expenditure of this fund, it is purposely left to those who shall compose the "council" to make these plans; those who raise the fund shall have a full say regarding its application. The function of the Upton Social Club is and has been to carry this scheme through to a successful completion, not as an enterprise of its own, but as an enterprise of the Upton people regardless of any lines or distinctions.

With less money than the amount suggested something could be attempted but it could not be finished. If it had been the purpose of the originator of this plan to start something and leave it half or less than half done, a smaller figure would have been suggested. None such is the project; it is the plan to ask for a certain sum, carefully plan what we can do with that sum, and finish up what we start.

It is of course a part of the understanding of this plan that the official representatives of the town, such an agent, or agents as is indicated at the time of the appropriation and the School Committee, shall have definite recognition and discretion in its consummation.

I take this opportunity to thank the many citizens of the town who have contributed in the least towards helping along the grading fund. To the press, the schools, the professional public, the public at large, and the citizens in private, the fund is much indebted. Let the good work go on; the thing which costs us most we cherish most.

Conclusion. In my capacity as Superintendent of Schools I wish to state my appreciation of the relations which have existed between the School Committee, the entire corps of teachers, the pupils of the schools, the public officials of the town, the citizens of the town and myself. In concluding my second year of service as your Superintendent, and my fourth year of service as an official connected with your schools, I have nothing to regret in the treatment which I have received from you all; I can but hope that in a measure I have merited the confidence and support you have accorded me.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT ORANGE SMALL,
Superintendent of Schools.

UPTON, MASS., February 1st, 1905.

REPORT OF THE PRINCIPAL OF THE HIGH SCHOOL.

Mr. Robert O. Small, Superintendent of Schools,

DEAR SIR:

My acquaintance with the Upton High School began last September, therefore my report must necessarily be incomplete. I can only speak for the condition of the school during the short time that it has been under my care.

The school opened Sept. 6th, with sixty-four pupils. Since then two new names have been added to our roll. Of the sixty-six registered at the present time, sixty-four are undergraduates and two are members of the class of 1904, who are taking post-graduate work.

Nothing is more inspiring to a teacher than a good attendance record. During no month since this school year opened has the attendance fallen below 97 per cent. This shows that the pupils take an interest in their school work.

A large number of the students have made known an intention of entering higher institutions of learning later on and they are now working with that object in view. This matter of having something definite in view for which to strive ensures a higher grade of scholarship. It is only aimless effort that is productive of no results.

The teachers have all tried their utmost to inculcate in the pupils a love for study but at the same time they have recognized the fact that to make great students is not the only end for which a teacher strives. They have also tried to instill into the minds of the young people intrusted to their care those qualities that tend to develop successful and useful men and women.

We have an excellent school building, the best of text books, but I cannot let pass this opportunity for calling attention to the fact that the present school library is inadequate to meet the needs of the different departments of instruction. During this present school year this inadequacy has been, in part, remedied by borrowing books from the town library.

In conclusion I want to extend an invitation to the parents asking them to visit school at every opportunity. Give us your hearty co-operation.

I am, with respect,

MELVIN J. WHITE,
Principal.

Mr. R. O. Small, Superintendent of Schools,

DEAR SIR:

The way in which vocal music is being taught in the schools of Upton at the present time more nearly approaches my idea of what that work should be than that of any previous year under my direction.

As a branch of study worthy of a place in our schools, it must be taught with other aims than simply to cultivate the musical talent of those who possess it. It must be made to serve as a valuable aid in the physical, mental and moral culture of every pupil, for which purpose all study is given. To this end a large share of the time in the first four grades is given to individual work with the pupils, that the condition and needs of each may be perfectly understood, and correct habits of breathing, thought, and concentration or mind established.

Upon entering the fifth year of school life, the pupils have, as a rule, mastered the simple problems of rhythm and notation, and are prepared to read with equal facility in the different keys.

With the present corps of painstaking teachers, and the books now in use, the conditions were never more favorable for success in teaching vocal music than the year upon which we are about to enter.

That good work is being done in the High School was shown by the chorus last June. In September the soprano and alto parts were reenforced by a large entering class of good readers, which has added much to the balance of tone.

The drawing has been steadily improving during the year. In the summer the outlines were rearranged for the purpose of limiting the time assigned to each subject, and producing more uniform work throughout the schools. By the present arrangement a month is given for the study or practice of a certain topic or principle. At the close of it each pupil is required to hand in a neatly finished sheet that shall show his comprehension of the subject taught, and his best effort at execution with the brush, pen or pencil.

The arrangement has thus far given satisfaction, and I am confident, will continue to, as the aim of each practice period is more definite, and it results in less waste of time and effort on the part of the pupil.

The work in all the schools for December was the planning and making of objects suitable for Christmas gifts. The good results of this work in previous years have been so apparent that I decided at this time to attempt the making of a greater variety of objects, each of which should involve some principle, or the gathering together of various principles that had previously been taught. To ornament the basket forms which were made by the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades, it was decided to use the "spot" designs which had been the topic for the November study. This called not only for good taste in creating a design, but for originality of thought in adapting it to a given space.

In all our work our aim has been to make the child servant, resourceful and self-reliant.

As the success of the work in both departments is largely dependent upon the ability of the teachers in conducting the daily lessons, I realize my indebtedness to them for their earnestness and hearty co-operation throughout the year.

I wish also to acknowledge my gratefulness to the Superintendent and School Board for the generous aid given me at all times.

Respectfully submitted,

FLORA M. RANDALL,
Supervisor of Music and Drawing.
