

Meet our new Community Health Worker, Jenna!

Jenna has over ten years of experience in social services and has several ties to surrounding communities. Her focus will be working with individuals to improve access to mental health and substance abuse services. In addition, she will be available to any resident or family in the community who needs assistance with accessing public benefits, various community resources, or who just has a tricky situation they need some help figuring out!

“I like to think of this role as being as unique as the needs of the residents in our communities. If I don’t have the answer for someone, I have plenty of connections and will certainly find the answer,” says Jenna.
